

WRIT12010 Creative Writing: Adventures in Craft

Term 1 - 2024

Profile information current as at 10/05/2024 01:00 am

All details in this unit profile for WRIT12010 have been officially approved by CQUniversity and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

This unit builds on the writing techniques and experience acquired in Beginning Creative Writing. In this unit you will undertake a writing project which may take the form of a short story, play, suite of poems or any approved mixture of these, using experimental writing techniques. The Unit is suitable for intending teachers and students interested in advancing their knowledge in creative writing practice.

Attendance Requirements

All on-campus students are expected to attend scheduled classes – in some units, these classes are identified as a mandatory (pass/fail) component and attendance is compulsory. International students, on a student visa, must maintain a full time study load and meet both attendance and academic progress requirements in each study period (satisfactory attendance for International students is defined as maintaining at least an 80% attendance record).

Assessment Grading

This is a graded unit: your overall grade will be calculated from the marks or grades for each assessment task, based on the relative weightings shown in the table above. You must obtain an overall mark for the unit of at least 50%, or an overall grade of 'pass' in order to pass the unit. If any 'pass/fail' tasks are shown in the table above they must also be completed successfully ('pass' grade). You must also meet any minimum mark requirements specified for a particular assessment task, as detailed in the 'assessment task' section (note that in some instances, the minimum mark for a task may be greater than 50%). Consult the University's Grades and Results Policy for more details of interim results and final grades.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from student/staff feedback

Numerous broken links embedded in study guides

Recommendation

Rewrite of the study guides with use of CQULibrary online resources to fix the broken links and replace links that include advertisements.

Feedback from self-reflection

Feedback

Students appreciate the space and time to analyse and then apply the complex concepts covered in the weekly lectures to their own writing practice in an environment of creative leadership

Recommendation

Continue weekly creative writing workshops.

Feedback from student feedback

Feedback

A concerning drop in student evaluation of the provision of useful resource material

Recommendation

Redesign unit to reflect new and emerging trends and developments in experimental writing, including a focus on groundbreaking contemporary Australian writing (an examination of its avant-garde techniques)

Unit Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Effectively apply elements of literary experimentation in the drafting, redrafting and final presentation of a sustained piece of creative writing to a professional standard.

Assessment Tasks

1 Assessment Item 1: Proposal/Pitch

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Word Count: 500 words

Marks: Pass/Fail

Students are required to develop a 500 word 'proposal/pitch' for a publication of their choice (e.g. Magazine, journal, literary review, etc.).

The 'proposal/pitch' will include an outline describing the basic themes, plot/story line or concept of the writing project for the Term and must be topic specific to the submission requirements of the chosen publication. The publication will dictate topic, tone, required images, word length, etc. The aim of the pitch is twofold: a) to show how the student's chosen topic fits the publication criteria; and b) to ensure the writing piece will be developed and written in a suitable and appropriate way. The proposal/pitch is the student's negotiation the topic with their lecturer.

The Pitch/Proposal is non-graded but it is a condition of the unit that the item must be submitted and approved. Your proposal/pitch must identify a publication of choice (e.g. Magazine, journal, literary review, etc.). Your creative writing project will be determined by the submission requirements of the chosen publication, but may take the form of a short story, play, suite of poems, a children's story, or any approved mixture of these, and must indicate a specific experimental writing technique to be used.

Your proposal/pitch should show evidence of research in regards to the chosen genre and form of your writing project, but should also show evidence of how your story, suite of poems, dramatic script, etc., will use experimental writing techniques, e.g., 'stream of consciousness, multiple viewpoint, realism, impressionism, etc., anti-realism, memoir,' among other types such as meta-fiction, Avant-pop, experimental life writing, or digital fiction, etc., (where relevant). Your proposal needs to explain the standard to which your final piece/s aspires as well as showing that it is actually achievable and the sources you have consulted (these details will be mediated, to some degree, by the requirements of the chosen publication). As the creative component of the final assessment for this unit is 2000-2500 words in length, your project may be in the form of two-three pieces totaling 2000-2500 words (depending on the publication), or, one complete piece totaling 2000-2500 words (again, depending on the submission requirements of your chosen publication). You will be encouraged to actually submit your piece/pieces to the publication of choice, although this is not compulsory nor a condition of the unit.

Hot Tips: (include in your submission):

- A clear conceptualisation of the project taking into account the requirements of the unit and those of the publication of choice;
- A description of the 'standard' to which the work aspires based on research and the requirements of the named publication of choice (e.g., if you intend on writing a 'magic realism children's story' then state the indicators for this genre and the literary qualities that make your creative artefact a magic realist children's story and not some other genre);
- Explanation of the characteristics of the chosen genre and how the artefact contributes, reworks, experiments with and/or affirms these; Some idea of the method to be used in producing the artefact (i.e. beyond just sitting and writing - what research is needed, how will this influence what is written, timelines, publication requirements, etc.,);
- Where appropriate, a brief review of relevant subject matter (for example, if you intent to write a surrealist memoir based on a real historical figure, then some research on this figure and the context in which they lived would be appropriate as well as an indication if primary source material is actually available, etc.)
- Any other relevant detail relating to the intended writing project and the publication of choice.

NOTE: The specified word limit for this item (500 words) does not include the reference list or the week-by-week timeline. The word count is considered from the first word of the introduction to the last word of the conclusion. It excludes the cover page, abstract, contents page, reference page and appendices. It includes in-text references and direct quotations.

Assessment Criteria

The Proposal will be evaluated according to the extent to which:

1. the proposal clearly identifies the publication of choice and includes a link to the publication's website
2. the proposal evidences that it will carry-out a clearly articulated set of outcomes in reference to the genre and form of the writing project (e.g., writing the first chapter of a novel, writing a series of ten poems, writing a dramatic script, writing a short story, writing a children's book, etc.)
3. the proposal identifies the specific publication of choice and the style in which the content of the creative artefact will be written (e.g., stream of consciousness, multiple viewpoint, realism, impressionism, etc., anti-realism, memoir, paranormal, metafiction, Avant-pop, experimental life writing, or digital fiction, etc.)
4. the proposal of the creative artefact represents an original piece of writing according to the chosen genre and requirements of the nominated publication, and is of an achievable standard shown via a week-by-week timeline indicating what is to be undertaken and when in the writing process (including milestones, e.g., benchmarks achieved leading up to Assessment 2 - Critical Reflection Journal, benchmarks achieved leading up to Assessment 3 - Final Creative Artefact)
5. the proposal defines key literary concepts (e.g., 'point of view', 'short story', 'multiple viewpoint', 'magic realism', etc.), using at least 5 credible/scholarly sources identified as important in ensuring that your creative artefact is informed by the literary and stylistic conventions of your chosen genre, the specified style, and experimental writing technique/s in which the content will be written
6. the proposal is presented in a flawless literary presentation, formatting and referencing (Harvard Author-Date system).

2 Assessment Item 2: Critical Reflection Journal

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Word count: 1800 - 2500 words

Students are required to reflect weekly on their writing progress with specific reference to their experiences in using/applying the experimental creative writing techniques under consideration. The reflective journal must discuss in a critical way how the final creative piece is being/has been shaped by the various factors effecting the process of literary creation, including research.

Remember, critical reflection is about 'stepping outside yourself' and viewing your work objectively: 'It asks us to think about our practice and ideas and then it challenges us to step-back and examine our thinking by asking probing questions. It asks us to not only delve into the past and look at the present but importantly it asks us to speculate about the future and act' (refer to A "Critical" Reflection Framework, State Government of Victoria 2007 for helpful tips). This assessment has two parts:

1) Students' weekly reflections must be completed on a weekly basis. You are required to submit seven (7) of these weekly reflections in total over the eight week period from Week 3 to Week 10. Note: Bonus marks apply for submitting 7 weekly entries on time (pro-rata).

Students can complete their reflective journal by:

a) posting weekly entries directly to the relevant weekly Critical Reflection Journal blog on the unit Moodle site; or
b) compiling the journal as a Word document and uploading each entry weekly to the relevant weekly Critical Reflection Journal blog

2) You must then combine your 7 weekly entries in a single Word document and submit to Moodle/Turnitin using the unit's submission platform for this item by the due date in Week 10. This will give you an opportunity to do a final edit and polish of your journal before submitting for assessment.

Word Count: Each response should be between 250-350 words in total (references are not included in the word count). This unit allows for a +/- 10% variation on the word limit.

Assessment Criteria

This assessment item will be evaluated on the extent to which:

1. the reflection journal critically discusses the carrying-out the articulated set of outcomes of the Proposal in reference to the genre and form of the writing project (e.g., writing the first chapter of a novel, writing a series of ten poems, writing a dramatic script, writing a short story, writing a children's book, etc.)
2. the reflection journal provides critical commentary on the specific style in which the content of the creative artefact will be/has been written (e.g., stream of consciousness, multiple viewpoint, realism, impressionism, etc., anti-realism, memoir, paranormal, etc.)
3. the reflection journal objectively examines the implications of the chosen experimental writing technique as regards plot, setting, rising action, characterisation, dialogue, sequencing, etc., or any other literary element represents an original piece of writing
4. the reflection journal comments on the development of the creative artefact alongside the prescriptions of the nominated publication
5. the reflection journal is presented weekly in a flawless literary presentation, formatting and in-text referencing using the Harvard (author-date) referencing style, and, includes at least 2 references per blog entry identified as important in ensuring that the creative artefact is informed by the literary and stylistic conventions of the chosen genre and the specified style in which the content will be written.

3 Assessment Item 3: Final Creative Artefact

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Word Count: 2000 - 2500 words

Marks: 55

Students are required to complete at least one piece of writing of a publishable standard.

The publishable piece must be completed according to the topic proposed in Assessment One ('The Pitch'/Proposal), as negotiated with the unit lecturer.

The word count is negotiable depending on the genre of the writing and the publication requirements of the chosen publication. As the creative component of the final assessment for submission is 2000-2500 words in length, your project may be in the form of two-three pieces totaling 2000-2500 words (depending on the publication), or, one complete piece totaling 2000-2500 words (again, depending on the submission requirements of your chosen publication).

You will be encouraged to actually submit your piece/pieces to the publication of choice, although this is not compulsory nor a condition of the unit.

The assessment item is worth 55% of the overall grade, so the standard expected will be high.

This item will be marked and returned as soon as possible after Term 2 classes conclude.

Assessment Criteria

This assessment will be evaluated to the extent to which the work:

1. Evidences a carrying-out of the points referred to in the project pitch/proposal with experimentation and innovation;
2. Demonstrates an original piece of writing in the nominated experimental writing technique, of the chosen genre, and is of a standard clearly showing indicators for the chosen genre and publication;
3. Showcases a work of a flawless, polished, and finished piece of writing at a publishable standard;
4. Evidences the sustained use of recommended theoretical concepts in supporting work, whether a creative or critical component;
5. Utilises overall clarity of expression including spelling and grammatical correctness as well as appropriate acknowledgment of sources using the Harvard(author-date) referencing style where this may be relevant.

NOTE: Please include a copy of your Proposal with the final creative writing piece/s positioned before the artefact proper.

Word Count: The word count is considered from the first word of the introduction to the last word of the conclusion. It excludes the cover page, abstract, contents page, [the Proposal: Assessment Item 1], reference page and appendices. It includes in-text references and direct quotations.

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
