AGRI11008 Introduction to Agricultural Systems

Term 1 - 2025

Profile information current as at 27/09/2024 11:21 am

All details in this unit profile for AGRI11008 have been officially approved by CQUniversity and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

This unit will introduce you to agricultural production systems, historical agricultural production methods including Indigenous agriculture, and the development of modern agricultural systems. You will learn the characteristics of important livestock, cropping and horticultural industries in Australia and discuss the economic, social and environmental sustainability of these systems. You will enhance your understanding of the pressure placed on the physical and biological resources upon which agricultural production depends. You will examine the impact of agricultural practices on the economics of primary production and on the environmental and social fabric of rural and urban communities. You will also explore the concept of agricultural production systems as managed ecosystems, and analyse the principles of ecosystems in natural and managed systems.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

There is a need for additional feedback after the completion and marking of each assessment.

Recommendation

Apart from the feedback each student receives after the marking of each assessment piece, additional assessment feedback will be provided during lectures/tutorials. Feedback for the last assessment piece (which is due after the end of the term) will be delivered via the Moodle forum and email.

Feedback from Self reflection

Feedback

Encourage students to provide feedback on an ongoing basis.

Recommendation

During the course of the term, encourage students to provide feedback on all aspects of the unit including the teaching on an ongoing basis. They may choose to do this during lectures/tutorials, Moodle forums or via email.
