General Information

Overview

Students are provided with the opportunity to become a 'real world' investigator during this foundation unit. Through engagement with peers, lecturing staff and the socio-technical world around them, students will develop base skills in investigation ethics and philosophy, evidence-based practice in investigation forensics, and begin to understand the nature of accidents and disasters, and latent pathogens in socio-technical systems.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE Feedback

The only SUTE comment was that the teacher was amazing, friendly and very approachable.

Recommendation

It is recommended to keep being approachable to students. Extra help was offered and taken up by several students this term in order for them to fully understand the learning outcomes. This seems to have been appreciated and valued by the students.

Feedback from Student Evaluation Scores

Feedback

Student evaluations scores were all in the 100% range for this term.

Recommendation

It is recommended to keep the structure, delivery style and practical assessment criteria for this unit as it appears to be well appreciated by students.
