General Information

Overview

On successful completion of this unit you will be able to define the role of an Allied Health professional, and outline the importance of Allied Health professionals in delivering primary health care within Australia. This unit will outline the health status of various Australian populations, provide you with foundation knowledge about the health care services and insurance schemes available, and bring awareness to the biopsychosocial impacts of living with an illness, injury or disability. In this regard, you will gain an introductory skillset in the use of The International Classification of Functioning, Disability and Health, applying this classification to various case studies across the semester.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student Unit and Teaching Evaluation (SUTE).

Feedback

Students appreciated the introduction to various allied health disciplines, but further exploration of other disciplines would be beneficial for interdisciplinary learning.

Recommendation

It is recommended that exploration of other allied health disciplines be introduced to expand student's knowledge of the allied health landscape.

Feedback from Student Unit and Teaching Evaluation (SUTE).

Feedback

Students appreciate the clear, written feedback on their assessment tasks.

Recommendation

It is recommended that clear, written feedback continue to be provided on the submitted document, to allow students the best opportunity to learn from feedback.
