General Information

Overview

This unit introduces object-oriented software design and implementation, including the use of complex data structures and algorithms. You will learn data structures, algorithms, and both theoretical and practical aspects of software engineering. The theory will focus on software processes, requirements engineering, modelling, architectural design, design patterns, software development methodology, testing, and quality assurance. You will also be introduced to the principles of software reuse, and development code management. You will develop multi-tiered software application consisting of presentation, application, and data persistence tiers. You will also learn test-driven software application development using appropriate tools, thus building solid foundations for software development.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student evaluations, feedback from the teaching team and informal feedback from students.

Feedback

The new unit materials were relevant and helped student learning

Recommendation

Continue to provide teaching materials of a similar standard.

Feedback from Student feedback. Feedback from the teaching team.

Feedback

Assessments gave students relevant, practical experience with the concepts taught in the unit. Students found their tutorials and practical assignments engaging and helpful.

Recommendation

Continue with similar assessment tasks.

Feedback from Student feedback

Feedback

Assessment feedback was useful and helped students to learn and to improve the quality of their work.

Recommendation

Continue to aim for high-quality feedback that helps students improve the quality of their work.

Feedback

A new LTS version of Java (25) has now been released. Students have asked when the new LTS version will be used in the university.

Recommendation

It is recommended that, if possible, the transition to the new LTS version be made in Term 2 or Term 3 of 2026.
