General Information

Overview

This unit introduces you to the practical issues involved in the design and implementation of robust enterprise software applications enabling business-to-business and business-to-customer operations. You will learn data persistence and management of persistent objects extending your knowledge of object-oriented programming. You will learn to use well-known design patterns to build portable, highly available and maintainable software applications that require integrated use of several open-source tools. You will work in a small team to design and develop a 3-tier enterprise system with a data persistence tier, business logic layer, and a web-based presentation tier. Issues and consequences of complex computing will be discussed in the context of enterprise computing architecture and technology.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from In-class student feedback

More exercises would be helpful as students enjoy practical exercises.

Recommendation

Add more lab practice exercises where appropriate, especially in the last 2 weeks.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator

Feedback

Students are not assessed on enterprise programming until halfway through the term.

Recommendation

Change the first assessment from a purely written report into a practical plus report and use the practical part of Assessment 1 as formative.
