COIT20247 Database Design and Development

Term 2 - 2025

Profile information current as at 27/09/2024 10:09 am

All details in this unit profile for COIT20247 have been officially approved by CQUniversity and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

In this unit, you will learn how to model, design, and build relational databases and manipulate them using Structured Query Language (SQL) in a modern database management system (DBMS) such as MySQL Server. You will build a practical database that typically meets the requirement of a large-scale commercial-level DBMS. In this unit, you will also learn the features of the latest developments including data integrity, security, distributed system databases, data warehousing, and concurrency control in multi-user database systems.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator reflection

Feedback

Students struggle with getting started with SQL and ERDs.

Recommendation

Add more self-driven practical Moodle activities to allow students to practice SQL queries and database design.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator reflection

Feedback

Difficult to maintain academic integrity with the advances in GenAI.

Recommendation

Introduce invigilation to the final assessment.

Feedback from External Review

Feedback

Good practices in database design and implementation are not always clearly shown.

Recommendation

Emphasise good practices to students and ensure examples follow those practices.

Feedback from External Review

Feedback

Unclear breakdown of marks in assessments.

Recommendation

Revise the marking criteria to ensure expectations of students are clear.
