COIT20272 Mobile App Development Project Term 3 - 2024

Profile information current as at 18/05/2024 03:56 pm

All details in this unit profile for COIT20272 have been officially approved by CQUniversity and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

In this integrative capstone project, you will develop a significant and authentic mobile application. Specifically, you will employ the technical and professional skills that you have developed in your course of study to contribute to the development of an authentic web, hybrid, or native app. You will apply a relevant software engineering methodology, taking into account best practices in testing, quality assurance, and cyber security. You are required to use and document typical project management processes to ensure that the project is delivered on time and within budget.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator reflection

Feedback

The unit requires students to progressively develop a prototype, and avoids excessive number of written reports, allowing students more time for development.

Recommendation

Keep the main focus on prototype development rather than producing excessive amount of written reports.

Feedback from Unit Coordinator reflection

Feedback

Use of state-of-the-art tools would enable students to accelerate development of quality mobile applications.

Recommendation

Mandate the use of state-of-the-art tools, such as Figma for user interface design and Bootstrap for HTML page design.
