CRIM12003 Criminology Theory

Term 2 - 2026

Profile information current as at 05/12/2025 03:37 pm

All details in this unit profile for CRIM12003 have been officially approved by CQUniversity and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

This unit extends your basic knowledge of the theoretical underpinnings of criminology by considering a broad range of interdisciplinary contemporary theories of crime and penology. You will investigate how these theories can inform research, legislation, law enforcement and regulatory responses to crime. You will examine theoretical and practical case studies to consider how different theoretical approaches may lead to different and perhaps contradictory outcomes. This unit will also develop your methodological analysis skills, examining qualitative and quantitative data to test models suggested by theories of crime.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

Students felt the unit Moodle site needed to be updated and better organised.

Recommendation

The teaching team will update and organise content on the Moodle site to ensure materials are current and accessible to students.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

Students wanted more guidance and examples of how to complete the written assessments.

Recommendation

The teaching team will revise the assessment instructions to increase clarity and provide examples (where possible) to provide further guidance on what is required.

Feedback

Students found the unit materials and activities engaging.

Recommendation

The teaching team will continue to provide an engaging unit through the use of past and current examples, and activities and discussions for students to explore theories further.
