General Information

Overview

In this unit you will examine the justice systems and practices of Indigenous Australian communities and their relationships with Western justice institutions. Indigenous Australian understandings of Western law and justice will also be compared to the situations and principles of international Indigenous communities. You will discuss and evaluate community justice innovations that seek to respond to Indigenous interests and to embrace Indigenous perspectives and voices. Through analysis of these innovations you will demonstrate the importance of empowering communities to find solutions to their problems. You will develop skills to identify the position of Indigenous people within the Western criminal justice system and you will develop your Indigenous cultural competency to a higher level.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student feedback

Integration of First Nations voices in workshops

Recommendation

The representation of First Nations perspectives could be enhanced through the introduction of Indigenous guest speakers during the workshops who can share their lived experience with students directly.

Feedback from Educator observation

Alternate engagement and peer interaction opportunities aside from the weekly workshops

Recommendation

The weekly workshops, while valuable for student learning, consistently yield low attendance. Additional opportunities for engagement and interaction, such as peer learning groups or forums should be explored, providing students with a diversity of ways to interact with one another and the unit.
