General Information

Overview

This unit introduces you to the theory and practice of case management in criminal justice and related human service contexts. The aim of case management is to provide a consistent quality service as offenders pass through the complex criminal justice system. Effective case management can reduce incarceration, reoffending (recidivism), manage integration of offenders and those with mental illness back into society with meaningful employment, reunite and support families and prevent substance abuse. Case management can involve dealing with parole conditions and monitoring and engagement with court-ordered diversion programs. You will consider client intake and assessment, identification and troubleshooting issues, creating a management plan, dealing with difficult or uncooperative clients, providing support whilst maintaining a safe working environment and monitoring systems.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Lectures need further connections to real-world practice.

Recommendation

Guest lecturers or speakers with lived- or work- experience or practitioners will be invited to participate in recordings or live discussions to help connect students with real-world practice and to help bridge the gap between theory and practice.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

Some content does not reflect current frontline realities.

Recommendation

Updates will be made to unit content to reflect current concerns and issues in case management, including learning activities that challenge assumptions and deepen critical thinking. Guests with lived experience will be invited to attend live workshops to provide an opportunity for students to connect the unit's learning content with the guest's case management experiences.
