General Information

Overview

In this unit, you will extend your thinking about viable sources of curriculum, and through reflection on the work of educators of Reggio Emilia, you will explore the notion of 'teacher as researcher', see yourselves as researchers and see children as active participants in the design, construction and enactment of the 'curriculum'. You will examine the teacher's role in pedagogical decisions with particular emphasis on mindfulness, reflective practice and intentional teaching, and as (co)creators of aesthetic learning environments that support connectedness, belonging, investigation, discovery, play and wellbeing. Pedagogies of relationships, place, play, possibility and provocation are examined in in-depth ways. You will examine guiding principles and research underpinning curriculum approaches as well as your own developing assumptions and philosophy of education to articulate what you believe should underpin curriculum inquiry in early childhood. You will inspect how early childhood pedagogy reflects the importance of childhood and contributes to the holistic wellbeing, learning and development of children. As part of this process, you consider what being, belonging and becoming can look like in practice for children and for the early childhood educator. You will scrutinise real-world challenges and dilemmas. You will demonstrate your ability to identify and think through complex issues, diverse interpretations and expectations of the teaching and learning process and respond to these in ways that deepen your intellectual, ethical and emotional engagement work.

Unit Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Articulate a theorised approach to early childhood pedagogy that recognises the importance of play and builds on relationships with children and connectedness to their worlds
2. Evaluate the influence of educators' personal assumptions and biases on understanding and interpreting the contexts and consequences of communities and children's socio-economic backgrounds
3. Conduct an inquiry into pedagogies of place and play to identify the influence and significance of contexts on teachers' curriculum decision making
4. Defend the role of the early childhood professional in making ethical decisions that respect children
5. Critically reflect on prevailing notions of curriculum, curriculum frameworks and schooling to identify opportunities for exercising professional judgement in curriculum decision making and pedagogical practices that value children and childhood in and beyond early years settings.

Successful completion of this unit provides opportunities for students to engage with the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers (Graduate Career Stage) focus areas of:

1.2 Understand how students learn
2.1 Content and teaching strategies of the teaching area
2.2 Content selection and organization
3.6 Evaluate and improve teaching programs
3.7 Engage parents/carers in the educative process
4.1 Support student participation
6.2 Engage in professional learning and improve practice

Assessment Tasks

1 Portfolio - A Research Inquiry of Place and Play

Assessment Type

Portfolio

Task Description

In this task you are required to use the research methodology of visual ethnography. This requires you to study a learning environment (play space) that is man made, a natural environment or a combination of the two. You will need to identify a Research Question that will direct an inquiry into the use of the learning environment that you have chosen.

Documentation will be collected (for example: photos/images; drawings and sketches; journal entries; film clips; collections of materials or objects or artifacts or signs/symbols at sites; mapping of pathways in spaces) during field-work. The documentation will be analysed to identify possible patterns, themes, paradoxes and issues in relation to the Research Question you have explored. For example, you may choose to focus on a favourite place children like to play; well used places and spaces; poorly used places and spaces; child-friendly space/s; community space/s; beautiful spaces and so on.

The assignment will be presented as a photo essay, a collage of multiple data, poster display or a mix of images and narrative text.

This visual display will be accompanied by a 1000-1500 word statement that describes the context of the issue studied; a clear research question/issue explored; the methods used to collect data; interpretations and implications of the data for curriculum and pedagogy in relation to place/play and the way in which possible biases and assumptions and personal experiences influenced the research and your interpretations of the data.

The terminology and the assignment concepts will be explored during the weekly tutorials of the unit.

Weight 50%

NOTE: This assessment task builds professional knowledge and understanding of pedagogical practice in early years contexts and develops critical reflection on the role of ongoing professional learning in enacting professional roles in diverse early learning settings.. The task can be used as evidence for demonstrating aspects of the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers focus areas 1.2, 2.1, 2.2, 4.1 and 6.2.

Assessment Due Date

Week 5 Friday (14 Dec 2018) 11:45 pm AEST

This assessment task is due at the end of the non teaching week which will be Week 5 for this intensive unit.

Return Date to Students

Week 8 Monday (7 Jan 2019)

Feedback on this assessment response will be provided in sufficient time to allow for academic support and advice as necessary to inform students' responses to the next assessment task.

2 Written Assessment - Reflection on a dilemma using play based pedagogical learning

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Using a case study or media vignette (suggestions will be provided during tutorials), you are required to identify the tensions and dilemmas within the case study or vignette and the principle or belief that is at the centre of the tension (e.g I want to focus on relationships not rules). You are required to identify the issue, relate it to the principles and outcomes of the Early Years Learning Framework (DEEWR, 2009), your preferred pedagogies (teaching practices) that you would use in your own classroom, other guides such as the Rights of the Child and your own teaching philosophy to describe methods that you would use to address the issue/dilemma. You must include research to support your statements. Your management of the complex issue or dilemma in your future classroom must be clearly stated and explained with reference to relationship building between you (as the teacher), children, families, colleagues to relieve and overcome the issue/dilemma.

The identification of the issue and the rationale for the possible and realistic solutions should be 1500 words and include headings that indicate the logical structure of your work. If required, the use of tables, diagrams, dot points is acceptable in your presentation of the task.

Weight: 50%

National standards demonstrated: 1.2, 3.6, 3.7, 6.2, 7.1, 7.2

NOTE: This assessment task extends understanding of research-informed practice in early childhood settings. The task includes a focus on evaluation of teaching programs and strategies for engaging with parents/carers and colleagues to improve teaching practice. The task can be used as evidence for demonstrating aspects of the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers focus areas 1.2, 3.6, 3.7, 6.2, 7.1 and 7.2.

Assessment Due Date

Week 10 Friday (25 Jan 2019) 11:45 pm AEST

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
