General Information

Overview

In this unit, you will extend your thinking about viable sources of curriculum, and through reflection on the work of educators of Reggio Emilia, you will explore the notion of 'teacher as researcher', see yourselves as researchers and see children as active participants in the design, construction and enactment of the 'curriculum'. You will examine the teacher's role in pedagogical decisions with particular emphasis on mindfulness, reflective practice and intentional teaching, and as (co)creators of aesthetic learning environments that support connectedness, belonging, investigation, discovery, play and wellbeing. Pedagogies of relationships, place, play, possibility and provocation are examined in in-depth ways. You will examine guiding principles and research underpinning curriculum approaches as well as your own developing assumptions and philosophy of education to articulate what you believe should underpin curriculum inquiry in early childhood. You will inspect how early childhood pedagogy reflects the importance of childhood and contributes to the holistic wellbeing, learning and development of children. As part of this process, you consider what being, belonging and becoming can look like in practice for children and for the early childhood educator. You will scrutinise real-world challenges and dilemmas. You will demonstrate your ability to identify and think through complex issues, diverse interpretations and expectations of the teaching and learning process and respond to these in ways that deepen your intellectual, ethical and emotional engagement work. You will complete a 15 day placement in an early childhood service with children birth to 35 months.

Assessment Grading

This is a graded unit: your overall grade will be calculated from the marks or grades for each assessment task, based on the relative weightings shown in the table above. You must obtain an overall mark for the unit of at least 50%, or an overall grade of 'pass' in order to pass the unit. If any 'pass/fail' tasks are shown in the table above they must also be completed successfully ('pass' grade). You must also meet any minimum mark requirements specified for a particular assessment task, as detailed in the 'assessment task' section (note that in some instances, the minimum mark for a task may be greater than 50%). Unit Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Articulate a theorised approach to early childhood pedagogy that recognises the importance of play and builds on relationships with children and connectedness to their worlds
2. Evaluate the influence of educators' personal assumptions and biases on understanding and interpreting the contexts and consequences of communities and children's socio-economic backgrounds
3. Conduct an inquiry into pedagogies of place and play to identify the influence and significance of contexts on teachers' curriculum decision making
4. Defend the role of the early childhood professional in making ethical decisions that respect children
5. Critically reflect on prevailing notions of curriculum, curriculum frameworks and schooling to identify opportunities for exercising professional judgement in curriculum decision making and pedagogical practices that value children and childhood in and beyond early years settings.
6. Complete a placement with young children birth to 35 months
7. Plan and implement learning experiences that promote the engagement and participation of all learners and are responsive to their characteristics, stage of development and social, cultural and linguistic backgrounds and also link to your observations of the child/children.

Successful completion of this unit provides opportunities for students to engage with the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers (Graduate Career Stage) focus areas of:

- 1.2 Understand how students learn
- 2.1 Content and teaching strategies of the teaching area
- 2.2 Content selection and organization
- 3.6 Evaluate and improve teaching programs
- 3.7 Engage parents/carers in the educative process
- 4.1 Support student participation
- 6.2 Engage in professional learning and improve practice
- 7.1 Meet professional ethics and responsibilities
- 7.2 Comply with legislative, administrative and organisational requirements

Guidelines for the registration of an early childhood qualification with the Australian Children Education and Care Quality Authority (ACECQA) specify what the curriculum of an early childhood course must include. Assessment Tasks

1 1 Portfolio - A Research Inquiry of Place and Play

Assessment Type

Portfolio

Task Description

Task Description

Task Description

In this task, you are required to use the research methodology of visual ethnography. This requires you to study two learning environments (play space). This means that you examine one man-made environment and one natural environment or a combination of the two. In the selection of the learning environments, you need to ensure that one of these environments provides opportunities for children, birth to 35 months to engage in the space. As you select the play spaces, you may also like to consider spaces in which children like to play; well-used places and spaces; poorly used places and spaces; child-friendly space/s; community space/s; beautiful spaces and so on.

You will need to identify a Research Question/s that will direct an inquiry into the use of the learning environment that you have chosen. The focus of your research question/s should consider:

- What understandings about the children are reflected in the design or features of this play space?
- Are there opportunities for children to play and what type of play is encouraged in this space?
- As you examine the space and the possibilities afforded for children, consider also pedagogical implications for teachers. For example, how might the teacher engage with the children in the space and how might the teacher add to the play space over time?
- How do the spaces contribute to ensuring opportunities for optimal brain development?

Documentation of the spaces will be collected using a number of resources. This includes photos/images; drawings and sketches; journal entries; film clips; collections of materials or objects or artifacts or signs/symbols at sites; mapping of pathways in spaces) during field-work.

The documentation will be analysed to identify possible patterns, themes, paradoxes and issues in relation to the research question you have explored. The focus for your analysis also needs to link back to the dot points under the focus for your research question.

The assignment will be presented as a photo essay, a collage of multiple data, a poster display, or a mix of images and narrative text.

This visual display will be accompanied by an up to 2000 words statement that describes the context of the issue studied; a clear research question/issue explored; the methods used to collect data; interpretations and implications of the data for curriculum and pedagogy in relation to place/play and the way in which possible biases and assumptions and personal experiences influenced the research and your interpretations of the data.

Weight 50%

NOTE: This assessment task builds professional knowledge and understanding of pedagogical practice in early years contexts and develops critical reflection on the role of ongoing professional learning in enacting professional roles in diverse early learning settings. The task can be used as evidence for demonstrating aspects of the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers focus areas 1.2, 2.1, 2.2, 4.1 and 6.2.

2 Reflection on a contemporary issue using play based pedagogical learning

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Task Description

This task requires you to identify a challenge or issue within the contemporary teaching-learning context. In beginning this task, you need to select a case study or media vignette (suggestions will be provided during tutorials). As you engage with the case study you need to identify the challenges or tensions within this issue. Your analysis will be supported through consideration of the principles, practices, and outcomes articulated in the Early Years Learning Framework (DEEWR, 2009) and the Rights of the Child (UNCRC, 19). Additionally, you need to consider how this challenge or issue links to early childhood pedagogies.

Following analysis of the issues, you will describe methods that you would use to address the issue/dilemma with reference to relationship building between all stakeholders to address the issue/dilemma.

After critically reflecting on the issue and your approach to addressing the issue, you need to articulate the principles that will support your work as an early childhood pedagogue in the future. You must ensure that the principles you articulate and use to guide your practice into the future are inclusive of children birth to eight.

There must be evidence of research using authoritative sources to support your approach to this assessment task.

Word Count: Up to 2000 words.

Weight: 50%

National standards demonstrated: 1.2, 3.6, 3.7, 6.2, 7.1, 7.2

NOTE: This assessment task extends the understanding of research-informed practice in early childhood settings. The task includes a focus on the evaluation of teaching programs and strategies for engaging with parents/carers and colleagues to improve teaching practice. The task can be used as evidence for demonstrating aspects of the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers focus areas 1.2, 3.6, 3.7, 6.2, 7.1 and 7.2.

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
