General Information

Overview

In this unit the focus is on students in the pre-adolescent and adolescent years. In this unit you will develop further understandings about the ways in which educators create supportive learning environments that are responsive to students needs. In particular, you will identify strategies to promote positive wellness and mental health for yourself and for your students. You will articulate a developed understanding of the links between risk and protective factors, wellness and learning, and use examples from your environment and community to develop analytical and practical knowledge of the notion of wellbeing and mental, emotional and social health as a community concern. Throughout this unit you will reflect upon the ways in which learning and wellbeing are linked and how a learner's individual, school and community experiences can impact on wellbeing. You will also consider your own wellbeing and explore enabling strategies that will support the efficacy of your own professional practice.

Assessment Grading

This is a graded unit: your overall grade will be calculated from the marks or grades for each assessment task, based on the relative weightings shown in the table above. You must obtain an overall mark for the unit of at least 50%, or an overall grade of 'pass' in order to pass the unit. If any 'pass/fail' tasks are shown in the table above they must also be completed successfully ('pass' grade). You must also meet any minimum mark requirements specified for a particular assessment task, as detailed in the 'assessment task' section (note that in some instances, the minimum mark for a task may be greater than 50%). Consult the University's Grades and Results Policy for more details of interim results and final grades.

Assessment Tasks

1 Well-being Context: literature, policy and community resource scan

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

The Australian Professional Standards for Teachers identified for Assessment Task 1 include:

- Standard 1.1 (Physical, social and intellectual development and characteristics of students);
- Standard 1.3 (Students with diverse linguistic, cultural, religious and socioeconomic backgrounds);
- Standard 4.4 (Maintain student safety); and
- Standard 7.4 (Engage with professional teaching networks and broader communities).

ASSESSMENT TASK 1: This is an individual written task. There are two parts to this task.

Part 1: Present your understandings about student well-being, resilience and safety as they relate to the middle years students and to the educational context in which you learn and teach. Focus particularly on:

- defining and describing the importance of well-being, resilience and safety for young people;
- describing the current educational context in which well-being promotion is positioned;
- identifying and discussing the types of risk mitigating and protective factors that support middle years' student well-being and safety;
- identifying and discussing the the diverse developmental, social and intellectual characteristics of young people that make them vulnerable to well-being impacts; and

• identifying and discussing the diverse cultural, linguistic, religious and socioeconomic backgrounds of young people that might make them vulnerable to resilience and well-being impacts.

Part 1 should be approximately 1500 words.

Part 2: Then, consider the broad range of contemporary issues that are potential sources of risk for middle school students. You might use tables, diagrams and/or concept maps to present your response. As well, you must include a written, referenced statement of no more than 800 - 1000 words at the end of Part 2. 1.Scan research literature, policy, community networks, physical and online services, organisations and available resources to identify areas of advocacy and support for the well-being and safety of young people with respect to these sources of potential risk. The aim is to get you thinking about the issues and the range of supporting resources that are available. Present a broad overview that lists a range of contemporary sources of risk (eg: domestic violence, cyber bullying, drug use) along with relevant and appropriate support mechanisms, programs, organisations and resources that could be accessed by students at risk or by those wanting to support them through the risk. You should consider resources at the school, community and organisational levels (which might also include online sites as well).

2. Then choose one particular source of risk. Examine that source of risk more closely to present an extensive, detailed overview of the support programs, mechanisms, organisations, resources that are specifically available at school, community and organisational level to mitigate that risk source.

Now choose one particular key resource/support material (eg: Mindmatters for Bullying). Identify the ways in which this key resource supports well-being promotion and your source of risk through its direct connections to the six resiliency builders presented through the Resiliency Wheel (Henderson, 2007). You can present this through a visual representation as well as through a justification of your thinking through the written statement. The written statement should also describe and discuss the potential impacts of your chosen source of risk on young people's well-being, resilience and safety.

The word count is considered from the first word of the introduction to the last word of the conclusion. It excludes the cover page, abstract, contents page, reference page and appendices. It includes in-text references and direct quotations. For this task, you may be given additional word count information that relates to the use of graphic organisers, tables and other similar formats.

2 Educator Context: strategies for personal/professional well-being and student well-being

• • • • •

Assessment Type Written Assessment

Task Description

The Australian Professional Standards for Teachers identified for Assessment Task 2 include:

- Standard 3.7 (Engage parents/carers in the educative process)
- Standard 4.4 (Maintain student safety); and
- Standard 6.1 (Identify and plan professional learning needs)
- Standard 6.2 Engage in professional practice and improve learning
- Standard 7.1 (Meet professional ethics and responsibilities)
- Standard 7.3 (Engage with the parents/carers)

ASSESSMENT TASK 2: This is an individual written task. There are two parts to this task.

Part 1: The first part asks you to critically reflect on your own well-being and resilience, making links to your future work as a teacher.

Through a series of four to five journal entries (each approximately 200 - 250 words long), written ideally over time as you engage with the unit content, critically reflect on your personal preparedness for your future as a classroom teacher. Present a self-study of your own well-being and capacities for resilience. This self reflection should take the form of a personal biography and be written in the first person. Academic referencing is not necessarily required in Part 1.

Think about the following to guide your reflections:

- What are the significant events and/or people in your life who have shaped your capacity for resilience and your views about resilience?
- How have these events and/or people shaped your resiliency?
- What are the significant resiliency builders that have impacted on the risk mitigating and/or protective factors that you have experienced in your life so far?
- How resilient are you?
- What is teacher resilience and why is it important?
- What is it about your own resilience that you will draw on as a teacher in the 21st century classroom?
- What are the challenges presented through your own capacities for resilience?

- What are the key wellness and self-care strategies that you might draw on to improve your professional practice in the rapidly changing 21st century educational context?
- How will your understandings about your own resilience help and/or hinder your work as a teacher?

It is important to make the links between your personal resilience and your potential teacher resilience. It is important to make the links between your past, your present and your future work. Part 1 should be approximately 1000 - 1250 words.

Part 2: A commitment to students' well-being and safety through socially just classroom practices and strategies

Present a 'Class learning and well-being frame' through which you articulate specific strategies/activities that can be used at your classroom and school level to support students' well-being and safety working within school, curriculum and legislative requirements (including the relevant Code of Ethics for Teachers). The strategies and the use of the frame in the classroom/school context should:

- guide your professional practice, engagement and relationship-building with students and other stakeholders in educational and community environments;
- inform your decision-making about learning environments, curriculum and pedagogy to respond to, and to support the diversity and needs of middle years learners;
- facilitate relationship building in educational and community environments;
- promote the personal and social capabilities of your students;
- promote student well-being; and
- develop safe, supportive learning environments.

You might use a well-being framework (eg: Circle of Courage, Resiliency Wheel, PERMA) that we have already considered in this unit so far, or you might develop a frame of your own based on your own understandings of positive well-being promotion. Please note that a 'frame' is not a written description. You should present a visual representation through which you document the specific strategies, ideas, activities and so on that are appropriate for a classroom and school context.

As well, a written justification for the frame you have chosen (or developed yourself) should articulate the ways in which the elements of the frame can be used to support your work of the teacher. In particular, you should consider teacher work as described in the Australian Professional Standards for Teachers (APST, Standard 4) and make links to contemporary research/literature about student well-being. Discuss the ways in which you might communicate your professional view about well-being promotion to parents and caregivers.

Your justification should also include a justification about the specific strategies that promote students' wellbeing and safety that you have identified within your frame. You should specifically consider APST 4.4. Your referenced justification should be approximately 1500 words in total.

The word count is considered from the first word of the introduction to the last word of the conclusion. It excludes the cover page, abstract, contents page, reference page and appendices. It includes in-text references and direct quotations. For this task, you may be given additional word count information that relates to the use of graphic organisers, tables and other similar formats.

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre (ALC) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Seek Help If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
