General Information

Overview

ENEG11008: Materials for Engineers introduces you to the essential knowledge of materials science and the ways in which engineers understand, select and use materials and processes for engineering applications. In this unit, you will gain knowledge of engineering materials, microstructure and its effect on the material properties. You will learn how to identify and explain the properties of engineering materials and processes, and how to classify these materials. You will also learn how to select engineering materials and processes for engineering applications, as well as to conduct material tests and report on their results. Throughout this unit, you will develop teamwork, research and communication skills. In this unit, you must complete compulsory practical activities. Refer to the Engineering Undergraduate Course Moodle site for proposed dates.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE Teacher Evaluation

Students appreciated good examples and case studies from real-life applications that link theoretical learning to practical learning.

Recommendation
The unit coordinator should strive to introduce the latest case studies and state-of-the-art technologies related to the unit's contents.

Feedback from SUTE and Email

Feedback
Some students reported difficulty locating the assessment feedback, which had been provided as an annotated document.

Recommendation
All assessment feedback should be uploaded alongside the annotated document in the assessment submission area.
