General Information

Overview

This unit is specifically designed so that students can apply the processes of research investigation through the analysis of, reflection on and critique of, an area of their professional practice. The unit uses a problem-based learning approach within an authentic workplace learning environment. This ensures students are undertaking an investigation that is relevant to the needs of industry. Students will apply an appropriate research methodology that suits their research problem. At the end of this unit, students will have developed a project plan that they will implement in the follow-on unit Engineering Research Project Implementation.

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

Class schedule clashes with internship hours

Recommendation

The Unit Coordinator should collaborate with the administration team to schedule the classes after hours, taking into account the requirements of internship students and working professionals in the industry.

Feedback from SUTE

Feedback

The updated assessment criteria and templates

Recommendation

The Unit Coordinator should inform the supervisor and reviewers of the updated assessment criteria and templates to ensure consistency.

Feedback from Class room feedback

Feedback

Students struggle to manage time for both internship and research projects

Recommendation

Students should be encouraged to discuss thesis requirements with internship providers to request flexibility.
