General Information

Overview

Computer-Aided Design (CAD) skills are essential for a variety of engineering professionals. In this unit, you will learn the fundamentals of engineering design and drawings using orthographic projection conventions and sectioning conventions complying with relevant engineering standards with the aid of appropriate software tools. You will develop skills in 3D solid modelling and rendering as well as producing detailed assembly drawings. As part of a team, you will design and construct 3D printed objects gaining an insight into all aspects of the design and rapid prototyping process.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Students

Feedback

More help on CAD.

Recommendation

Improvements in instruction materials are recommended. The students should use the latest version of the AutoCAD Instructor book along with the tutor's instruction sheet.

Feedback from Students

Feedback

Schedule classes after hours.

Recommendation

As students are working, classes should be scheduled in the evening.

Feedback from UC

Feedback

The two-hour class for lectures and tutorials is short.

Recommendation

It is suggested that a contact period of three hours (1 hr Lec and 2 hr Tute) should be scheduled.
