General Information

Overview

At a global level, there are rising demands for health care, limited resources and increasing inequalities in health. Community health assets and needs assessments have a vital part to play, enabling practitioners, managers and policy-makers to identify those in greatest need; the physical, economic, social and cultural assets available within the community; and to ensure that health care resources are used to maximise health improvement. For health promotion practitioners, the ability to conduct a community health assessment is a core skill. You will be introduced to the different types of community assets and needs assessments that can be undertaken with local communities. You will examine the history and role of community assets and needs assessments and review a range of methods that can be used to implement and evaluate assets and needs assessments in local communities. You will have the opportunity to complete a community profile and also undertake a community assets and needs assessment.

Written Assessment

Task Description

You need to provide a detailed community profile in the form of a report. This report will include:

- The definition and elements of community, as outlined by Issel (2009);
- Information about people, place and interaction relevant to your chosen community;
- Commentary about the assets available in the community;
- Commentary about the strengths and limitations of the information presented;
- Commentary related to what additional data could contribute to a comprehensive health assessment of your chosen community.

You should gather the information related to your chosen community from multiple sources, such as census data, local media, published reports, etc.

As the content of this assessment may form the basis of assessment item 3 it is crucial that your research and description of the community is both thorough and accurate.

As part of the report you will need to acknowledge the strengths and limitations of the information you present, discuss how and from where further data may be obtained and in what ways this additional information may contribute to a comprehensive health assessment of the community you have described.

3 Community Assets and Needs Report

Assessment Type

Group Work

Task Description

In a group, you will need to produce a comprehensive community health assessment report, that could be used to plan an effective and culturally sensitive health promotion intervention to address a health need which you identify as a priority within the community. This report will include:

- a detailed outline of the health issue that could direct the development of a health promotion intervention
- the effective use of both primary and secondary data
- a critical discussion of the findings of the assets and needs assessment
- a description of the process of identifying a health priority and an outline of relevant recommendations

As such the report you submit must be comprehensive and constitute a significant body of work.

Students will work in small groups for this assessment and groups need to be formed at the residential school. Each working group will consist of 4 or 5 members. The ability to work in project teams is an important attribute for any health professional particularly those involved in the development, implementation and evaluation of health promotion programs. Group work promotes the development of many of CQUniversity's Graduate Attributes including teamwork, critical evaluation, feedback and communication skills as well as academic honesty. A process of self and peer assessment will be used within this assessment and final marks will be calculated by appropriate adjustments to the group marks. (Specific details of the peer assessment process will be distributed at the residential school.)

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
