General Information

Overview

One of the most challenging tasks confronted by university graduates working in human resources is the management of conflict and effective practice of negotiation. Accordingly, as a graduate, you will required some fundamental skills from the very start of your career. These include the ability to apply basic psychological principles when dealing with people, the ability to prepare and conduct effective negotiations, and the ability find productive solutions in conflict situations. This unit is designed to provide you with the opportunity to build upon theory from earlier units, and to acquire conflict resolution skills that will be applicable in the workplace.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Response rates

Continued low response rate on Student Evaluation Survey

Recommendation

Increase emphasis further on student feedback. Look at incorporating the student feedback survey information into the lecture for weeks 9-12.

Feedback from New unit coordinator

New unit coordinator

Recommendation

Monitor student experience and performance following the introduction of a new unit coordinator
