General Information

Overview

In this unit, you will examine contemporary issues in human resource management (HRM) and explore the impact that new developments in people analytics have on an organisation's ability to strategically attract, recruit, retain and manage its human resources in a competitive environment. In addition, this unit will raise your awareness of the relevance of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander cultures in good business practices, as well as apply lessons from those cultures for good ethical, social, and governance outcomes in HRM contexts.

Assessment Grading

This is a graded unit: your overall grade will be calculated from the marks or grades for each assessment task, based on the relative weightings shown in the table above. You must obtain an overall mark for the unit of at least 50%, or an overall grade of 'pass' in order to pass the unit. If any 'pass/fail' tasks are shown in the table above they must also be completed successfully ('pass' grade). You must also meet any minimum mark requirements specified for a particular assessment task, as detailed in the 'assessment task' section (note that in some instances, the minimum mark for a task may be greater than 50%). Consult the University's Grades and Results Policy for more details of interim results and final grades.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit coordinator self reflection

Feedback

Continue to enhance new unit contents - People Analytics contents of the unit and Assessment 3

Recommendation

There is a need to appoint a new academic with a strong analytics background to manage this unit. This person should enhance teaching materials, including readings, case studies, statistics and new recordings on data analyses. These resources are to enhance students' understanding of statistics, predictive analysis, and decision-making. Ensure Assessment 3 is clear and easy to follow.

Feedback from Unit coordinator self reflection

Feedback

New lecture recording are required

Recommendation

New lecture recordings and updated lecture slides should be done in T1 2025 to provide students with a more comprehensive and clear explanation of HR analytics.

Unit Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. Identify key contemporary issues throughout the employment cycle and evaluate those which could affect HRM effectiveness.
2. Critically analyse key contemporary HR issues and their implications for effective HRM.
3. Evaluate approaches that could be used to address contemporary HRM issues.
4. Develop an understanding of people analytics, its opportunities and risks in relation to HRM.
5. Analyse and interpret organisation's data to make evidence-based HRM decisions.
