General Information

Overview

This unit requires you to write a substantial creative piece accompanied by an exegesis which will be completed in HUMT20017: Research Dissertation Creative Writing B, that is, the dissertation is the one sustained project not two separate term projects. The topic will be negotiated with a supervisor. The creative piece may be either Fiction, Poetry, Drama or any other approved mix and will be accompanied by a theoretically informed exegesis (critical commentary) of a combined length totaling 15 000–20 000 words. The creative piece will be expected to reflect a high level synthesis and stylistic application of the writing skills you have acquired through HUMT20012: Elements of Creative Writing I, HUMT20013: Elements of Creative Writing II, HUMT20014: Writing Short Fiction, and HUMT20015: Writing Poetry and Short Dramatic Pieces. The Dissertation will be formatted using Harvard Author-Date Referencing Style.

Term Specific Information

Like traditional dissertations, the two components of the Master of Letters (Creative Writing) completed in HUMT20016 (creative artefact) and HUMT20017 (exegesis) are assessed on a single dissertation submitted for examination. The final creative artefact together with the exegesis as a combined Dissertation document will be assessed by external examination involving two separate examiners. This process mimics the 'blind review' method adopted for MA (Creative Writing) and PhD (Creative Writing) examination. This process will be undertaken at the conclusion to HUMT20017 Research Dissertation: Creative Writing B. The external examination process typically takes around 6 - 8 weeks. Be aware therefore that while you will receive feedback on all assessment items for HUMT20016 (and HUMT20017), you will not receive a final grade until the external examination process has been completed. We are directed to use the provisional 'DA' (Deferred Assessment) grade in these cases (i.e. dissertations). This grade only marks provisionality, that is, that your final grade has yet to be finalised (not that an assessment item is outstanding), because your MLitt Dissertation has yet to be examined. As such, an interim letter grade of DA ('Deferred Assessment') will appear on your transcript (for HUMT20016 and HUMT20017) until the external examination process has been completed. That is, once your complete Dissertation comprising the creative artefact and the exegesis (completed in HUMT20016 and HUMT20017) has been submitted for external examination and returned, only then will your final letter grade (based on said external examination) appear on your transcript. As before, the external examination process typically takes around 6 - 8 weeks.

Assessment Tasks

1 Proposal

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

A proposal should be prepared and submitted for approval, and there are a number of factors that should be included. Taken together, the artefact and exegesis will need to demonstrate mastery of a field or genre, and should make a significant/original contribution to new knowledge.

The Proposal

The proposal is a statement of intention, typically 2500-3000 words of what you intend to work on in producing a 'creative artefact'. The type of detail included in the proposal depends on the type of artefact intended. The proposal must specify what you intend to achieve within the duration of this unit - Creative Writing Research Dissertation A. You must research and understand the elements of literary style characterising your intended genre if you intend to produce creative work within that genre.

There are a number of possible foci for the proposal (these may become key points):

- A clear conceptualisation of the project including a rationale (i.e. the exegesis, while it does include a number of components, should focus on the artefact in question - it is not a separate essay that focuses on other things)
- A description of the 'standard' to which the work aspires based on research (e.g., if you intend on writing a 'children's story' then state the indicators for this genre and the literary qualities that make your creative artefact a children's story and not some other genre);
- Characteristics of the chosen genre and how the artefact contributes, reworks, experiments with and/or affirms these and why; Some idea of the method to be used in producing the artefact (i.e. beyond just sitting and writing - what research is needed, how will this influence what is written, timelines, etc)
- Where appropriate, a brief review of relevant subject matter (e.g. many artefacts focus on historical figures, and so some research on this figure and the context in which they lived might be appropriate)
- Flawless presentation including grammatical correctness and Harvard style referencing.

B. Proposes indicators of significance and potential impact

- Significance of contribution of the creative artefact to knowledge in the area with which it deals (including original and new knowledge within the genre discipline/s)
- Proficiency of the creative component in its treatment of the chosen medium and/or genre, and the extent to which it affords evidence of originality in conception, innovation, and/or execution
- Potential significance and impact of the creative project in relation to creative literature and/or suitability for publication

2 Work-in-Progress: Critical Reflection Journal

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

The critical reflection journal for the purposes of this unit is a piece of 'critical' writing (to distinguish this from the 'creative' writing of the artefact). It is expected that this piece will help to inform your exegesis (completed in HUMT20017). Typically, an exegesis ('explanation or interpretation') is no more than 25-33% of the dissertation proper.

At this stage of the process, this item is a work-in-progress only. It is not intended as a final exegesis by any means.

The aim is to develop a number of simple recording methods to help you track your creative process and progress. It is only when the creative process is actually (tentatively) finished (typically by the end of this unit), that you should start analysing the process you used, the decisions you made and the context in which you made them (this phase commences in HUMT20017).

Simple recording methods might include:

- Keeping a visual diary of your work, showing its progress and transformations
- Keeping written notes alongside the visuals
- Keeping a blog or informal journal to reflect on such things as your intentions, ideas, methods, problems, reading.

As part of this work-in-progress process, you may also start to develop a brief literature review of relevant subject matter.

Assessment Due Date

Return Date to Students

Exam Week Friday (21 June 2019)

Weighting

Assessment Criteria

This item is a work-in-progress only.

It will be assessed on the extent to which it:

- Presents an informal approach to recording and analysing the creative writing processes in progress
- Presents an informal approach to recording and considering the context that has engendered or informed the creative writing work in progress
- Presents an informal approach to recognising and ensuring a balance between creative writing theory and practice
- Presents an informed approach to submitting the draft exegesis on time and in an appropriate format (when this final component is due)
- Presents qualify referencing using the Harvard (author-date) style

3 Final Creative Piece (Creative Artefact)

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

This unit requires you to write a substantial creative piece. In this unit, this piece will be provisionally accompanied by a 'critical reflection journal' but when the time comes, the creative artefact will be formally accompanied by an exegesis (which will be completed in HUMT20017 Research Dissertation: Creative Writing B).

That is, the dissertation proper is the one sustained project not two separate term projects.

The word length of the complete dissertation proper will be no fewer than 15 000 words, and no more than 20 000 words. With the exegesis portion of the document (completed in HUMT20017 Research Dissertation Creative Writing B) accounting for around 25% - 33% of the total word count, the word length of the creative artefact will typically range between 10 500 - 14 000 words. The word count is considered from the first word of the introduction to the last word of the conclusion. It excludes the cover page, abstract, contents page, reference page and appendices. It includes in-text references and direct quotations.

The creative piece will also be expected to reflect the writing skills acquired through HUMT20012 Elements of Creative Writing I and HUMT20013 Elements of Creative Writing II, as well as the other two coursework units (HUMT20014 and HUMT0015).

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
