The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

A short story contains multiple points of view and myriad narrative strategies. Moreover, as Patricia Hampl notes, the short story is 'acknowledged to be the most exquisite kind of prose fiction, requiring the perfect craft, the form in which the smallest slip can bring the whole contraption—plot, character, narration—down in a crash. A delicate business'. The aim of this unit is to provide students with an opportunity to explore the complexity and delicacy of the short story while developing their text-based interpretative and analytical techniques.

Assessment Grading

This is a graded unit: your overall grade will be calculated from the marks or grades for each assessment task, based on the relative weightings shown in the table above. You must obtain an overall mark for the unit of at least 50%, or an overall grade of 'pass' in order to pass the unit. If any 'pass/fail' tasks are shown in the table above they must also be completed successfully ('pass' grade). You must also meet any minimum mark requirements specified for a particular assessment task, as detailed in the 'assessment task' section (note that in some instances, the minimum mark for a task may be greater than 50%). Consult the University's Grades and Results Policy for more details of interim results and final grades.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Have Your Say

Feedback

Some students require a larger variety of student assessment exemplars.

Recommendation

Unit coordinator to provide assessment exemplars showing a range of styles and standards (P, C D, HD, etc.).

Feedback from Have Your Say

Feedback

Certain students felt that assessment questions were not easy to understand and need to be rewritten or replaced.

Recommendation

The unit coordinator will review the assessment topics to ensure their clarity and alignment with learning outcomes and graduate attributes.

Unit Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of this unit, you will be able to:

1. interpret, analyse and evaluate selected short stories from the nineteenth and twentieth century using a variety of advanced text-based interpretative and analytical techniques;
2. analyse and compare selected short stories within a framework of issues such as ideology, gender, race and the politics of literature;

Assessment Tasks

1 Short Paper

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Amongst other things, the formal elements (genre conventions) of the short story include:

- A compressed setting and time frame;
- A particular narrative point of view;
- A small set of characters revealed through action, dialogue and epiphany;
- A plot-structure beginning in media res, passing through exposition, complication, climax, and resolution;
- Use of figurative and sensual language.

Choose one [1] of the set stories (from any weekly module) and write a short paper (750-1000 words) discussing how the formal elements support or relate to the story's meanings and themes.

Assessment Due Date

Week 5 Friday (12 Aug 2022) 11:59 pm AEST

Marked assessments will be returned ASAP

Return Date to Students

ASAP after submission (within two weeks)

Weighting

20%

Assessment Criteria

The Short Paper will be evaluated according to the following criteria:

1. Understanding of the formal elements and conventions of the short story genre;
2. Ability to interpret the meanings of the particular short story;
3. The extent to which your responses reflect an interest in and understanding of unit concepts and issues.
4. Express yourself clearly (including spelling and grammar); and, acknowledge all your sources using the Harvard (author-date) referencing style.

2 Close Reading Journal

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Bennet and Royle (2015, pp. 60-62) recommend the following approaches to interpreting a short story.

- Think small
- Begin with the title
- Be suggestible
- Look out for repetition
- Talk about the plot
- Effects of intertextuality
- Ask yourself
- What is the time?
- Who's talking?

Apply one approach to one [1] story each week for nine [9] weeks. Focus on a short passage or a small set of quotations and perform a "close reading" in order to interpret the story's significance. Each piece should be 150-200 words and take the form of a well-constructed paragraph with a clear "thesis statement".

Choose your best six [6] responses for inclusion in the Close Reading Journal and upload it to Moodle by the due date. Bonus marks may be awarded to students that post their responses to the weekly discussion forum. Further guidelines for this assessment item are available on Moodle.

Assessment Criteria

The Short Answer Journal will be evaluated according to the following criteria:

1. Ability to apply Bennett and Royle's approaches to the chosen stories;
2. Ability to develop a thesis statement based on close reading and use of analytical concepts;
3. Ability to express yourself clearly (including spelling and grammar); and,
4. Ability to acknowledge all sources (if any) using the Harvard (author-date) referencing style.

3 Research Essay

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

Address one of the the following topics:

• According to Rohrberger (1979, p. 3): 'Everything in a short story tends to stand for something else, and because it does meanings can multiply even though the story is usually limited to a single major character involved in a single action'. Discuss this statement using textual analysis of at least three set short stories to support your interpretive argument.

• According to Terry Eagleton (2007, p. 50): 'The meaning of a narrative is not just the "end" of it, but the process of narration itself.' In other words, for a critical reader, the genre elements and literary devices of a text are just as important as what happens to the characters. Discuss the implications of the statement in relation to several short stories.

• Focusing on the interaction of genre elements (character, setting, plot, point of view, language, etc) trace the evolution of views on personal identity (class, gender, race, and sexuality) as they manifest in a selection of set short stories from the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

• Choose at least three set short stories and show how their content (meanings, themes, etc.) and form (genre elements) exemplify aspects of realism, modernism and postmodernism.

• According to Kusch (2016, p. 128) 'literature [the short story] is 'a space where human experience can be explored through language, and through analysis, we can make a place for ourselves as creators of meaning.' Compare and contrast three of the set stories in terms of this statement.

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
