General Information

Overview
In this unit, you will critically analyse and apply evidence-based research to identify and care for women experiencing highly complex physiological and psychosocial issues that may occur during the childbearing continuum. In addition, you will consider the particular experiences of women from marginalised groups. This may include women experiencing substance misuse, incarceration, migrant and refugee women, and members of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer and/or intersex (LGBTQI) community.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE data

Feedback
Within this unit, there was a lot of double-up with other units in the course.

Recommendation
The unit coordinator has reviewed the content within the context of the other units in the course and found no unnecessary repetition. It is possible that the perceived repetition of certain topics has been identified within a scaffolded approach to the learning and teaching of certain topics.
