General Information

Overview

Managers work with and through others in a variety of organisational structures, each with a set of internal contextual factors. In this unit you will critically examine the role of individuals, groups and managers in the performance outcomes of organisations in a dynamic environment. You will examine the context of organisations as structural frames and the different cultures, political networks and human resource processes that emerge and how these affect the management of people. The unit addresses key competencies required of managers to effectively work with and through others, including teamwork, empathy and trust, and conflict management. Using reflective practice as the basis for personal development, you will be required to examine, develop and acquire the conceptual knowledge, behavioural skills and attitudinal components needed to be an effective manager.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit coordinator reflection

Further changes to the assessment task structure will help make the assessment tasks appropriate for both the MBA and non-MBA cohorts

Recommendation

An update is recommended to change the weighting and content of the first two assessment tasks, such that the major assessment task is not the first one due in the term. This change will also allow other adjustments to the assessment task structure that will make the unit more accessible for both cohorts of students enrolling into this unit.

Maintain group work task

Recommendation

While some students demonstrate resistance to the group work task, it is important to retain this task, as it is an important component of this unit, particularly as group dynamics are discussed in the unit, and the unit serves an important role in both the CL20 and CL21/CC74 courses as a source of genuine group work experience.
