General Information

Overview

Why do some organisations perform better than others and how can an organisation deliver the best return for their marketing investment? These are fundamental questions of marketing strategy and demand rigorous marketing planning. Marketing plans are used in organisations to outline various strategies to create, promote, and divest products and services. In this unit you will be fostering a strategic approach to marketing and then developing and reviewing a marketing plan. You will work closely with an identified and approved business or organisation of your choice. Various tools and techniques used in the development, implementation and review of marketing planning will be explored. The unit will enable you to recognise how product and service targets are set and achieved, analyse and translate the marketing environments, and deliver and review a strategic marketing plan.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student and Unit Teaching Evaluations (SUTE)

Feedback

Everything seems to be clear and the lecturer and unit coordinator are very friendly and happy to assist us anytime with any confusion questions.

Recommendation

The future unit coordinator will continue to assist students in a friendly and helpful manner.

Feedback from Student and Unit Teaching Evaluations (SUTE)

Feedback

Additional resources relevant to weekly topics would be useful. For example, additional tools to understand BCG matrix, or Ansoff Matrix. Some additional resources provided (eg web articles) were not even available to read as they required a subscription

Recommendation

The future unit coordinator should ensure specific and accessible resources explaining the concepts connected to the lecture and assessments be provided to students.
