General Information

Overview

This unit introduces you to the important role of communication in nursing practice and strategies to effectively communicate as a nurse. You will examine types of communication strategies that are relevant to different health contexts. In particular, you will explore your own strengths in communication and how you can best use these to manage future challenges when nursing. Throughout this unit you will have the opportunity to work in small teams to explore the many different facets of communication in nursing and to build a portfolio that documents your learning and your development of skills and strategies to use in future nursing practice.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE Data

Feedback

Unclear unit requirements.

Recommendation

Revise group work requirements and introduce group work at the beginning of term as offered previously. Revised Unit Introduction Information to insure clarity.

Feedback from Emails

Feedback

Students reported value in working in groups

Recommendation

Continue to include group work within the unit to facilitate engagement with learning material.

Feedback from Emails

Feedback

Students felt staff allocating group meant mismatch of personalities and time allocation towards study made it difficult to form studying relationships.

Recommendation

Reconsider students self allocating based on connections and their own study habits.
