General Information

Overview

In this unit, you will study the stages and milestones of the lifespan and consider the implications of life stages on health and end of life experiences. The uniqueness of people's experiences as they reach milestones will be considered in developing person-centred care. You will have the opportunity to reflect on end of life experiences and the impact this may have on the person, their significant others and yourself as a health professional.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit evaluation

Feedback

Lecture slides don't contain a lot of written information.

Recommendation

Only mini-lectures are offered in this unit. Presentation slides have been prepared to ensure an adequate balance of content to cater to visual and auditory learners.

Feedback

There was a large volume of reading to complete each week.

Recommendation

Unit content will be revised prior to the commencement of each term to ensure currency and relevance. Where possible, a range of resources will be incorporated to achieve a balance between readings and other mediums.

Feedback

The learning activities and tutorials closely align with assessments.

Recommendation

Continue to develop learning activities that scaffold unit concepts and assist students to prepare for assessments.

Feedback from Unit evaluation

Feedback

I think the unit coordinators were fantastic in their communication style, very approachable and happy to teach.

Recommendation

Continue to maintain a strong focus on student engagement and retention.
