General Information

Overview

This unit will develop student understanding of public health nutrition, which encompasses the biological, social and environmental dimensions of health in promoting and maintaining the nutritional health of populations. Nutritional issues facing population groups in Australia and the role of public health practitioners in promoting health and preventing disease will be considered. Frameworks, policies and legislation relating to nutrition and health promotion practice will be explored along with practical aspects of public health nutrition practice.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit coordinator self reflection and informal comments from students.

Feedback

Additional content related to public health nutrition and short lectures can help with the understanding of complex public health nutrition concepts better.

Recommendation

Consider reviewing the structure, the content and the assessments of this unit to better align with learning outcomes and provide short lectures on public health nutrition concepts.

Feedback from SUTE students feedback.

Feedback

Students enjoyed real life examples which demonstrated the application of concepts learnt.

Recommendation

Continue to provide real life examples in the application of public health nutrition concepts.

Feedback from Unit coordinator self reflection

Some overlap seems to exist in the content covered in assessment tasks.

Recommendation

Review the content and topics covered by assessment tasks to include alternative topics if necessary.
