General Information

Overview

This unit continues the analysis of the lifespan through an occupational lens. You will build on foundation knowledge of lifespan development to understand the occupational roles of adults from young adulthood to end of life. Selected issues impacting upon occupational performance during these periods of development will be explored using an overarching health framework (International Classification of Functioning, Disability and Health, also known as ICF) and occupational therapy practice models. The potential contribution of the occupational therapist during each phase will be highlighted, and the role of the occupational therapist in the facilitation of occupationally-inclusive interventions will be explored. You will be introduced to professional reasoning and evidence-based practice in the context of working with adults and older people. You will also attend a series of fieldwork sessions, working with older people in the community, which will enhance learning and provide the opportunity to practice application of the occupational therapy process in a real-world situation.

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from SUTE comments Teaching team observations

Feedback

Poor on-site classroom audio hindered the learning experience.

Recommendation

It is recommended that the AV set up in the classrooms be monitored and improved where possible.

Feedback from SUTE comments Informal feedback

Feedback

Students appreciated the availability of online lectures for some content.

Recommendation

It is recommended that further online lectures be added to the class schedule where practicable.

Feedback from SUTE feedback

Feedback

There was some lack of clarity about assessment requirements.

Recommendation

It is recommended that all assessment materials be reviewed and that all information sources (e.g., Moodle, Unit Profile) be checked for consistency prior to the 2026 offering.

Feedback from SUTE comments Informal student feedback

Feedback

The guest lecturers and special interest topics were well regarded.

Recommendation

It is recommended that the guest speaker format be continued and added to when possible.
