General Information

Overview

Volunteering in cross-cultural communities is an experience many adults seek out to broaden their personal and professional perspectives. In this unit you will develop the skills and knowledge required to undertake a volunteer experience in a cross-cultural context. These experiences include being able to initiate and maintain cross-cultural relationships and to reflect deeply on your own actions, assumptions and worldviews that influence these relationships. You will explore the benefits and challenges of volunteering in cross-cultural communities and organisations and develop skills in the co-generation of knowledge through working closely with others. This unit requires you to undertake a minimum of 25 hours volunteering with a community organisation that will provide you with an opportunity to work with people from a cultural context different to your own.

Assessment Tasks

1 Group Presentation

Assessment Type

Group Work

Task Description

The first assessment task is a GROUP assignment that will involve a presentation. The purpose of the assignment is to discuss and analyze a specific example of a real health promotion campaign. The group will need to consider language and design elements. There are many references available on health promotion design that explain some basic principles of message construction, image choice, use of color, and so forth. These elements must be briefly discussed. The group must then consider the campaign from the point of view of the public, focusing on how ordinary people from various backgrounds might react to it. The strengths and weaknesses of the campaign in this context must be discussed and analyzed. You must also consider who the target audience is and whether the campaign is likely to have the desired effect on this target group.

Each group will work on ONE of the following:

1. Know the distance of distraction (Government of WA)

<https://www.rsc.wa.gov.au/Campaigns/Know-the-distance-of-distraction>

2. Crunch and Sip (Healthy WA0 <https://www.crunchandsip.com.au/parents>)

3. Stop smoking, start repairing (Department of Health, Government of Australia)

<https://www.health.gov.au/resources/publications/stop-smoking-start-repairing-health-benefits-for-women>

4. Check your immunization halo (Vic Health) <https://www2.health.vic.gov.au/public-health/immunisation>

5. Hey Tossler (City of Ryde, NSW)

<https://www.ryde.nsw.gov.au/Environment-and-Waste/Waste-and-Recycling/Other-Waste-Initiatives/Litter-Prevention/Gladesville-Catchment-Litter-Reduction-Campaign>

6. You may use a campaign you find yourself if approved by your lecturer.

Each group will contain five students. Each student in the group will be responsible for one slide in your presentation. A title slide is required that gives the title of the presentation and the names and ID numbers of each member of the group. You must also show an image (poster, etc) or video (TV commercial) from your campaign. Following this, each student in the group is responsible for the preparation of one slide. The accompanying text for presentation should be written out in the notes area which must also indicate the student's name. Finally, a slide containing the references used in the presentation must be included.

The group may choose one or two students to present or each student may present his or her own slide. However, the group must stay within the maximum time limit of 10 minutes. Groups that go over this limit will be told to stop, and going overtime will affect assessment.

Each student will choose one of the groups listed below and develop a case study that describes and analyzes the distinct communicative and cultural needs that would be relevant in developing a public health initiative or program to address a health need recognized in the community. The case study must include the following sections: overview of the status of the chosen community in Australia; review of the health status of the community with a focus on inequities that need to be addressed; description and analysis of communication and cultural factors relevant to the community; and discussion of how these communicative and cultural needs could be addressed in the context of a public health program. The case study must make reference to appropriate scholarly literature.

Students must choose one of the following groups:

1. The Australian Indigenous community living in rural and remote areas;
2. The Afghan refugee community living in urban areas;
3. The Chinese-speaking community living in urban areas;
4. Older adults of Greek or Italian origin (students must choose either the Greek or Italian community);
5. Arabic-speaking women;
6. School-aged children from low SES households in Australia;
7. The LGBTI community in urban and rural Australia;

Assessment Type

Reflective Practice Assignment

Task Description

The third assessment task for this unit is a reflective essay. This is an INDIVIDUAL assignment (1000 words). Each student will write a reflective essay based on his or her experience working in or engaging with a cross-cultural community. The student should discuss and analyse any two topics explored in this unit. Students are required to discuss not only their understanding of the topics, but also the implications for their current/future role in public health work. In addition, students should also draw from their own experience working in or engaging with cross-cultural communities and discuss the skills they need to develop further in order for them to work effectively in multicultural communities.

This is a reflective assignment, so a more informal writing style is acceptable. However, the reflection must not be wholly descriptive. It must contain an assessment of the way in which the student's views or thinking has changed and what he or she has learned about himself as a practitioner.

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
