Overview

This 12-credit point unit encompasses a clinical component (internal and external) and a research component. During clinic, you are required to demonstrate graduate competency in patient assessment, diagnostic decision-making, prevention, treatment and management of a wide range of podiatric patient presentations. You will also treat patients with conditions requiring minor surgical procedures. In addition, you shall also refine your skills in managing podiatric patients of differing ages, ethnic/cultural backgrounds, geographic locations, socioeconomic status and health profiles. This is the third and final unit in the formal requirements for completion of your honours research project. You are required to complete and submit your research project for evaluation. Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Staff feedback

The current external placement schedule may be better positioned in the first half of term two.

Recommendation

It is recommended that the five-week external placement be scheduled earlier in the term in future offerings. This is to better align with the unit schedules for co-requisite units and to reduce the burden of assessment in the second half of the term.

Feedback from Staff feedback, Unit coordinator reflection

The current Practical Assessment design is an effective and authentic clinical assessment

Recommendation

It is recommended that the current Practical Assessment design be used in future offerings
