General Information

Overview

This unit provides an introduction to the primary philosophies and key theories and frameworks that are fundamental to the study of psychology. You will examine the interplay of biological and social factors that underpin our understanding of people and behaviour. The biological content of the unit explores the structures and functions of the brain and nervous system, sensory and perceptual processes, learning and behaviour, and states of consciousness. The social content of the unit introduces you to motivation and emotion, human lifespan development, social cognition and perception and cross-cultural psychology, personality, psychological disorders, and intelligence. This unit is applicable to students studying a psychology course and those students from a variety of courses.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Student unit evaluation comments.

Feedback
The requirement for students to include real-life examples in their written assessment helped enhance their understanding of the content.

Recommendation
Continue to require students to provide real-life examples in their written assessment.

Feedback from Student unit evaluation comments.

Feedback
Some students felt the quiz could remain open for longer.

Recommendation
Extend the duration for which the quizzes are open from two to five days.
