General Information

Overview

This unit is designed for first-time researchers. It provides you with an introduction to the research methods and critical thinking approach that will be used throughout your psychology degree. At the end of this unit, you will be able to describe, apply, and evaluate a range of basic qualitative and quantitative research methods used in the social sciences. You will develop critical thinking, problem solving skills and group work skills. You will gain introductory competence in critically evaluating scientific literature, constructing empirical arguments, generating research questions, applying basic statistical concepts, and preparing scientific research reports in American Psychological Association (APA) formatting style. A focus will be placed on conducting research with diverse populations and in an ethically responsible manner. The skills and knowledge gained in this unit will be developed further in Research Methods 2 (PSYC12048) and Research Methods 3 (PSYC13015).

Attendance Requirements

All on-campus students are expected to attend scheduled classes – in some units, these classes are identified as a mandatory (pass/fail) component and attendance is compulsory. International students, on a student visa, must maintain a full time study load and meet both attendance and academic progress requirements in each study period (satisfactory attendance for International students is defined as maintaining at least an 80% attendance record).

Website

This unit has a website, within the Moodle system, which is available two weeks before the start of term. It is important that you visit your Moodle site throughout the term. Please visit Moodle for more information.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Have your say (student feedback), staff feedback

Feedback

On a few occasions the weekly live sessions were cut short, and the lecturer was under pressure to finish delivering the content. Longer live sessions provide more opportunity for contact with lecturers

Recommendation

The weekly live sessions should be a minimum of 1.5 hours to enable sufficient discussion with students.

Feedback from Have your say (student feedback)

Feedback

Weekly email updates could be sent out introducing that weeks content, expected assessment timeframes and potential resources for the upcoming content that week

Recommendation

Continue to develop the weekly milestones for the unit on the Moodle site, and encourage students to utilise this feature to assist with their studies.
