General Information

Overview

This unit will introduce you to the characteristics and processes of human development across the lifespan within the physical, cognitive and psychosocial developmental domains. The theoretical perspectives and concepts that guide thinking and study in the field of developmental science are introduced. A key emphasis throughout the unit is that developmental changes are the result of the complex interplay between nature (genetic endowment, biological influences and maturation) and nurture (environmental influences, experiences and learning). Both the universalities and diversities in human development are explored across diverse contexts and culture. The unit is designed to facilitate a critical and applied understanding of theory and research in the field of developmental science.

Feedback from Student feedback via 'Have your say'.

Feedback

Students appreciated regularly spaced online quizzes throughout the term.

Recommendation

Continue to provide online quizzes spaced throughout the term to enable students to review content and consolidate their learning and track their personal progress in the unit.

Feedback from Student feedback via 'Have your say'.

Feedback

Students commented that the tutorials were too heavily focused on the requirements of the written assessment task (research proposal) and did not provide further expansion or exploration of the lecture content.

2 Written Assessment (40%)

Assessment Type

Written Assessment

Task Description

This assessment task involves the preparation of a research proposal to investigate a topic within lifespan developmental psychology. The research proposal should be consistent with the three main goals of the study of lifespan developmental science - to describe, explain, and optimise human development across the lifespan.

More specifically, students will be required to select a research question on a topic in developmental psychology from a set of research questions. Students then need to design a study to address the question based on their review of relevant literature and theory. Students should consider the major methods for studying development and select a research design/methodology that will provide information or data to answer the research question. Students should also consider the significance of their proposed research project in terms of its practical importance to the community or society as well as its scientific contribution to existing theory and research in the chosen topic area.

The research proposal should comprise the following 5 sections: Background/literature review; Project aims and hypotheses; Methodology; Significance and Ethical considerations.

It is expected that at least one relevant and credible theory or model within developmental psychology is integrated within the proposal.

The research proposal length is 1,350 (minimum) to 1,650 (maximum) words. The word count includes everything in your submission except the Title page and Reference list. Tables and any figures or bullet points that might be used within the proposal will all contribute to the word count.

The research proposal topic choices and further task details will be discussed in tutorials and available from the Assessment 2 Information on the PSYC12010 Moodle site.

Assessment Due Date

Week 9 Monday (18 Jan 2021) 9:00 am AEST

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?

A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?

A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?

For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre \(ALC\) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest

If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help

If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work

Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
