General Information

Overview

Both qualitative and quantitative research skills are highly sought after in many career paths. This unit builds upon Research Methods 1 (PSYC11012) to provide you with the knowledge and skills to conduct and appraise both qualitative and quantitative research in your university and/or professional careers in psychology. The unit will continue to build your skills in critiquing, designing, and analysing qualitative research. It will also further advance your skills related to designing quantitative research, including how to perform basic statistical analyses by hand and using industry-standard computer software. Students who are not confident in their mathematical abilities are encouraged to contact the Academic Learning Centre (ALC) to discuss 'refresher' options.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Qualitative SUTE data.

The content, resources, and teaching styles of lecturers were clear, engaging, and informative.

Recommendation

Teaching staff should aim to continue to provide a respectful, supportive, and authentic approach to teaching this unit.

Feedback from Qualitative SUTE data.

Feedback

Communication about the expectations for, and relevancy of, Assessment 1 could be enhanced for clarity.

Recommendation

Highlight the relevance of the task in understanding the complex nature of qualitative research, and the key differences between qualitative and quantitative data visualisations. Review task instructions and ensuring that students are aware of the marking rubric and what is required from them to demonstrate their understanding of qualitative methodology.

Feedback from Staff reflection.

Feedback

While students appear to enjoy learning about the conceptual underpinnings of the statistical applications covered in this unit, and demonstrating their understanding of this in Assessment 3, the long-term retention of this content may be limited due to its abstract nature.

Recommendation

Review the nature and requirements of Assessment 3, to encourage more student reflection on the concepts taught and possibly enhance long-term retention of the content.
