General Information

Overview

This unit has a focus on developing your knowledge and understanding of skills to prevent and respond to violence against women (VAW). The most prevalent forms of this violence in Australia are domestic and family violence and sexual assault. They are recognised as "gendered crimes" that have an unequal impact on women. Although VAW occurs across all demographic groups, many women experience violence in ways that are specific to their circumstances. In Australia, for example, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander women, women with disabilities and women from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds are recognised in policy as priority populations. In this unit you will learn about different types of VAW, analyse sources of data that will help you to understand this violence, and examine various models that have informed policy and practice in the area of VAW. You will identify the health, social and economic impacts of VAW at individual and community levels and apply your learning to create a plan to enhance the safety of women. Your safety plan will be based on a case study and draw on the contemporary evidence base.

Length: 750 words (+/- 10%)
Unit Coordinator: Nicola Cheyne

Learning Outcomes Assessed

2. Analyse data sources relevant to the field of violence against women, including preventing and responding to this violence.

Aim

The aim of this assessment item is for you to find and analyse at least five data sources to prepare a fast facts document that informs the reader about intimate partner violence (IPV), the most common form of violence against women.

Context

A fast facts document is a way to raise awareness of the topic with a non-professional audience. Intimate partner violence affects many women in our communities and this document should help others understand various aspects of this topic.

Instructions

This assessment requires you to prepare a fast facts document about IPV drawing on your analysis of at least 5 data sources. For example, you may access a combination of quantitative and qualitative research findings from academic and grey literature. Your document should be developed for community stakeholders, so should be written in clear, concise language to raise their awareness about intimate partner violence (against women).

Develop a document of approximately 750 words (excluding the reference list) in 'layperson' language. You should provide content in relation to the following:

1. What is the definition of intimate partner violence (IPV)?
2. How many people are affected by intimate partner violence in Australia? Consider gender differences here.
3. In Australia, what populations of women are most at risk of experiencing IPV?
4. What is known about how to prevent IPV? (What interventions/programs exist that try to reduce/stop IPV? What are the limitations of what we know about prevention?)

Literature and references

You can use unit provided materials and other credible sources (journal articles, books) to reference your assessment. The quality and credibility of your sources are important. Your sources should be contemporary (later than 2010) and may be drawn from research and/ or grey literature. For example, you may draw on Australian or other statistics from government websites (e.g. Australian Bureau of Statistics, Australian Institute of Health and Welfare).

Learning Outcomes Assessed
1. Explain the various forms of violence against women that exist globally.
3. Report on the health, social and economic impacts of violence against women on individuals and the community.

Aim
The aim of this assessment item is for you report on how intimate partner violence impacts on individuals (women and their children) and the broader community.

Instructions
This report requires you to explore available evidence at multiple levels: global, national, jurisdictional etc. to inform the reader about the impacts of violence against women (VAW). It is also important to consider that "Race, sexuality, gender and disability, amongst other forms of identity, can impact the way a woman experiences violence" (Commonwealth of Australia, 2019, p. 26).

Scenario

In particular, your supervisor would like to know more about intimate partner violence. The structure of your report is:

Background: Identify your discipline area. Explain the various forms of VAW that exist globally. Highlight why there has been such a policy and community focus in Australia on intimate partner violence.

Section 1: Identify the impacts of intimate partner violence at the individual level. What is known about the health, social and economic impacts for individuals?

Section 2: Identify the impacts of intimate partner violence at the community level. What is known about the health, social and economic impacts at the community level?

Section 3: Which are the populations in Australia most at-risk of experiencing these impacts of IPV? Why?

Section 4: Reflection: What are four findings from your report that you could use in the future (e.g., your working/professional life, how your employer could use the information)?

Assessment 3 – Individual Case Study

Type: Case study

Learning Outcomes Assessed

4. Evaluate approaches to prevent, recognise and respond to this violence (violence against women).

5. Create a plan at either an individual or community level that enhances the safety of women.

Aim

The aim of this assessment item is for you evaluate approaches to prevent, recognise and respond to violence against women and use the information to create a general safety plan.

Instructions

Read the following case study and complete the associated tasks.

Scenario

You live in a regional centre (population approximately 80,000 people) which has a range of services including a domestic violence service, hospital, police, and local government office. Over lunch with your friend Matilda, you notice that she is close to tears. You haven't seen Matilda for a year, because she says she has to check with her partner Leon before she can commit to a catch-up. When you ask her if she's all right, she bursts into tears and explains that Leon (a worker in a meat processing plant) has been calling her names more often lately. When they have arguments, Leon demands Matilda leave the house until she apologises for making him angry.

She says she knows that he really loves her and shows her all the time, but sometimes he makes her sad – but she thinks that is normal in relationships. When you ask how he shows her love, Matilda says Leon texts constantly and buys her special make-up and clothes to wear which will make her look "even more beautiful". Recently he has started talking about how she should get his name tattooed on her neck, since he'd like to get her name tattooed too. Leon has even said that he loves her so much that if she ever left him, he would kill himself.

Lately, though, she has been feeling pressured by Leon to "do stuff in the bedroom", which makes her feel uncomfortable, and recently he hinted that he'd like to "share" her with a couple of his mates from the meat processing plant.

Tasks

With reference to this case study, you are required to:

1. Identify four points that Matilda has raised that make you worry about her safety. Explain why these four points are important in Matilda's situation (e.g., risk and safety in intimate partner violence/domestic violence, high risk indicators, indicators of lethality/homicide/increasing severity). This should draw on the contemporary evidence base (1000 word limit).

2. Propose a plan for Matilda's safety, based on her situation, that includes relevant community agencies. If necessary, suggest other agencies not physically located in this regional town that could be helpful to Matilda (Approximately 500 words).

3. Describe how an integrated community response could help Matilda if her situation escalates. What are the benefits of such an approach? (Approximately 500 words)

Academic Integrity Statement

As a CQUniversity student you are expected to act honestly in all aspects of your academic work.

Any assessable work undertaken or submitted for review or assessment must be your own work. Assessable work is any type of work you do to meet the assessment requirements in the unit, including draft work submitted for review and feedback and final work to be assessed.

When you use the ideas, words or data of others in your assessment, you must thoroughly and clearly acknowledge the source of this information by using the correct referencing style for your unit. Using others' work without proper acknowledgement may be considered a form of intellectual dishonesty.

Participating honestly, respectfully, responsibly, and fairly in your university study ensures the CQUniversity qualification you earn will be valued as a true indication of your individual academic achievement and will continue to receive the respect and recognition it deserves.

As a student, you are responsible for reading and following CQUniversity's policies, including the Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure. This policy sets out CQUniversity's expectations of you to act with integrity, examples of academic integrity breaches to avoid, the processes used to address alleged breaches of academic integrity, and potential penalties.

What is a breach of academic integrity?
A breach of academic integrity includes but is not limited to plagiarism, self-plagiarism, collusion, cheating, contract cheating, and academic misconduct. The Student Academic Integrity Policy and Procedure defines what these terms mean and gives examples.

Why is academic integrity important?
A breach of academic integrity may result in one or more penalties, including suspension or even expulsion from the University. It can also have negative implications for student visas and future enrolment at CQUniversity or elsewhere. Students who engage in contract cheating also risk being blackmailed by contract cheating services.

Where can I get assistance?
For academic advice and guidance, the Academic Learning Centre (ALC) can support you in becoming confident in completing assessments with integrity and of high standard.

What can you do to act with integrity?

Be Honest
If your assessment task is done by someone else, it would be dishonest of you to claim it as your own

Seek Help
If you are not sure about how to cite or reference in essays, reports etc, then seek help from your lecturer, the library or the Academic Learning Centre (ALC)

Produce Original Work
Originality comes from your ability to read widely, think critically, and apply your gained knowledge to address a question or problem
