Term 2 - 2024

Profile information current as at 02/05/2024 07:50 pm

All details in this unit profile for SPCH12008 have been officially approved by CQU University and represent a learning partnership between the University and you (our student). The information will not be changed unless absolutely necessary and any change will be clearly indicated by an approved correction included in the profile.

General Information

Overview

This unit will focus on phonetics and phonetic transcription of speech. You will apply this theoretical knowledge to practice across culturally and linguistically diverse settings. You will form an understanding of the relationship between the vocal tract and speech sounds produced, as well as the interface between phonetics, phonology and suprasegmentals. You will be required to listen to and transcribe speech samples using the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA) and Australian-English vowel symbols. This unit will provide you with a fundamental skill required in speech pathology.

Previous Student Feedback

Feedback, Recommendations and Responses

Every unit is reviewed for enhancement each year. At the most recent review, the following staff and student feedback items were identified and recommendations were made.

Feedback from Unit and teaching evaluations

Feedback

Students reported that there was a lot of content to learn and that the lecturer may need to restructure how the information is taught to allow some form of flexibility.

Recommendation

It is recommended that the content quantity and order in which it is taught be reviewed by the unit coordinator such that is specifically targeting first year students.

Feedback from Unit and teaching evaluations

Feedback

Students indicated that there were too many questions on the quizzes for the time allowed.

Recommendation

It is recommended the quiz content and time allocated be reviewed to ensure appropriate time frame for quiz completion.
